(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Generated largely by the demand for consumer goods, business activity since the latter part of August has been improved moderately, the commerce department said today in its monthly survey.
A number of major indicators have moved upward by more than the usual seasonal amount. There was a rapid gain in the textile industry, and an upturn in the leather and food processing industries. The heavy industries showed a continued tendency to lag. The heavy industries normally would be the last to recover.
Mill Activity Better.
Steel mill activity has risen to about 17 percent of capacity. The automobile industry is seasonally inactive with production at a low level. The slight advances in construction have afforded but little Rail officials cautioned groups to exert safety as they stand by to watch. The train will be proceeding under "full speed" orders.

To Make Second Relief Loan To Pennsylvania

R. F. C. To Loan $3,342,183 To State For Relief Work Of Month

FORMAL STEPS BEING TAKEN

Loan Will Be For Extending Aid In Counties Of Entire State

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Final formal steps were being taken today to make available to Pennsylvania the second direct relief loan granted by the Reconstruction Finance Corp., amounting to $3,342,183.

Directors of the corporation approved this amount late yesterday to be applied in the 64 counties not included in the first grant of $2,500,000, which was for use solely in Philadelphia, Allegheny and Northampton counties.
Both loans are to take care of needs of the state only until the end of this month, when a new application to cover the entire state will be submitted. It is estimated that a monthly average of 252,322 Pennsylvania families will need relief during the remainder of this year.
Both loans are to be administered by a committee of five headed by Governor Pinchot, and including the Lieutenant Governor, the State Treasurer, the Auditor General and the speaker of the State House of Representatives. Seven representative citizens in each county have been named by the governor to carry out the wishes of this state board.

Prince Michael Is Going Back To His Father

Tears In Eyes Of Princess And London Crowd As Youthful Prince Departs

LITTLE FELLOW IS SOME TALKER

(International News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 5.—Broken-hearted because his visit to his mother was over so soon, Prince Michael of Rumania left here for Paris today.
He left in an automobile which was to take him to Dover, where he was scheduled to embark for Paris.

Princess Helen, his mother and the estranged wife of King Carol, accompanied him as did his aunt, Princess Irene of Greece.
Police prevented the mob from touching the car.
When the princess emerged from the hotel, her face bore an expression of sorrow and worry. She smiled, however, when her 10-year-old son leaped into the front seat of the automobile and sat down beside the driver.

Then, with youthful impetuosity, the young prince began asking questions about the route to Dover. He put the driver through a stiff grilling about the mechanism of the automobile.
As the lad and his mother and aunt were driven away, it was evident that women in the watching crowd were affected by the thought of the princess, perhaps, was shortly to part from her son forever.
Some of them wept, and many of them muttered audibly:
"It's a great shame."

Crowds Greet President En Route

President and Mrs. Hoover made frequent appearances on the rear platform of their special train which carried them to Des Moines, Ia., heart of the farm belt, for the president's first campaign speech. The chief executive and the first lady are shown greeting a crowd at Altoona, Pa.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HOOVER'S SPEECH AT DES MOINES

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 5.—Highlights of President Hoover's speech here last night, follow:
"Three of the great perils (of the depression) were invisible except to those who had the responsibility of dealing with the situation. The first... the steady strangulation of credit... another federal revenues fell by nearly one-half. The third peril... that of being forced off the gold standard."
"Thousands of our people in their bitter distress and losses are saying that 'things could not be worse.' No person who has any remote understanding... ever utters that remark. Had it not been for the immediate and unprecedented actions of our government, things would be infinitely worse today."
"Let no man tell you it could not be worse. It could be so much worse that these days now, distressing as they are, would look like veritable prosperity."
"I was born in the midst of the terrible times of the '70s... and only in that period has our nation had to meet a situation in any degree comparable to that with which we now contend."
"... Many of these battles have had to be fought in silence... because the very disclosure of the forces opposed to us would have undermined the courage of the weak and induced panic in the timid, which would have destroyed the very basis of success. Hideous misrepresentation and unjustified complaint, had to be accepted in silence."
"... There has been but one test in my mind... the interests of the people in the homes and at the fire-sides of our country."
"When eighteen months ago the financial systems of Europe were no longer able to stand the strain... an earthquake ran through 40 nations... first one then another either abandoned payment in gold or their obligations to other countries... These events brought... a seething of despair which threatened civilization."
"... At one point the secretary of the treasury informed me that unless we could put into effect a remedy, we could not hold to the gold standard but two weeks longer... Never was our nation in greater peril."
"... The Republican administration rejected every counsel of weakness and cowardice... the battalions and regiments and armies thus mobilized for this great battle turned the tide toward victory, the bills of credit are expanding... men are daily being re-employed."
"Recovery began the moment when it was certain that destructive measures of the Democratic-controlled House were stopped. Had their program passed it would have been the end of recovery. If it ever passes it will end hope of recovery."
"The Democratic party proposes to reduce our farm tariffs. Aside from ruin to agriculture, such an undertaking in the midst of this depression will disturb every possibility of recovery."

Rentz Attending State Meeting

In Harrisburg For Meeting Of Greater Pennsylvania Council Members

An important meeting of the Greater Pennsylvania Council is being held in Harrisburg at which time plans for private support of the Council will be discussed.
The Greater Pennsylvania Council was created by the 1931 Session of the Pennsylvania Assembly, and an appropriation for its maintenance and operation was granted, but, due to the present economic conditions and the need for economy on the part of the State Government, a large percentage of this appropriation was discontinued by the last special session of the Pennsylvania Legislature. An effort is now being made throughout the state to have the work of the Greater Pennsylvania Council continued by other than the appropriation of state funds.
A number of the most outstanding citizens of the state were named by the Governor as members of the Greater Pennsylvania Council, among which were Hon. Fred L. Rentz, president of The News Co., F. R. Layne, chief engineer of the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad Co., E. B. Harshaw, Vice President of the Grove City National Bank and Hon. George Mahoney, mayor of Sharpsville, Pa.
These men have been invited to take part in the conference now being held in Harrisburg.

He landed on the ground with the board, still on his feet, he injured his feet and the ankles seem to be sprained, but the members are so swollen yet that a complete examination cannot be made for fractures.
The injury will confine him to his home for several weeks.

Towers Constructed For Cement Trolley

Buckets To Travel Wire When Piers Are Built At Wurttemberg Bridge

Carpenters have completed two tall towers at either end of the new Wurttemberg bridge, now under construction, according to County Commissioner Elmer Conners. The towers are to be used to support a cable on which buckets will be used to carry cement to the piers, which are to be erected in the Slippery Rock creek. Foundations for the piers are now being excavated. A rock foundation will be secured only a few feet under the surface of the water. Indications are that cold weather will hold up construction work and that the bridge will not likely be completed until next spring. This will not interfere with travel as the old bridge is still standing, the new one being on another location.
Labor being employed on the bridge is from New Castle, Ellwood City and Wurttemberg.

Hoover Makes Stirring Address At Des Moines Last Night

Has No "Economic Patent Medicine Specifically Compounded For Farmers"

By GEORGE E. DURNON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

A BOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.

—President Hoover barnstormed his way back toward Washington through the Central States today, renewed faith in his heart that the coming month will witness a nation-wide swing of sentiment to the Republican party and his own re-election.

The jeers that disgruntled Iowa farm leaders had predicted would meet him last night in Des Moines had developed into healthy cheers, inspired largely by his outspoken campaign address, and everywhere along the line he met only the most cordial of greetings.

Today, as his special train rolled through Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, the president had planned a minimum of ten rear platform speeches, each designed to convince the voters of this section that he should be returned to the White House next month for another four years. He was campaigning vigorously in a whirlwind fashion somewhat foreign to him, as if he realized his political life was at stake.

Look Off His Gloves
Last night, at the Iowa State Capital, Mr. Hoover took off his gloves and traded vicious body punches with his Democratic opposition and heard himself cheered to the echo at every turn.

To the farmers, he offered a 12 point program of relief, outstanding of which was a promise to recommend to Congress that "any annual payment on the foreign debt be used for the specific purpose of securing an expansion of the foreign markets for American agriculture."
And speaking of the billions owed this country by Europe, the executive

Donovan Will Wage Campaign

Colonel William J. Donovan, Famous War Leader, Chosen As Governor Candidate

REPUBLICANS TO COMMENCE BATTLE

(International News Service)
By JAMES L. KILGALLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Republican state leaders, fired with enthusiasm, today prepared to launch a vigorous campaign to elect Colonel William J. Donovan of Buffalo, who was nominated for governor on a ticket which the convention, in a telegram dispatched to President Hoover, characterized as "one of the strongest in years."
Donovan, former commander of the famous "Fighting Sixty Ninth" regiment, is a vote getter and will lead the state ticket to victory in the November election in the opinion of leaders, who assured the President that New York's 47 electoral votes will be in the Hoover column on Nov. 8.

Strong Ticket

The ticket as selected at the party's convention included:
For Governor—Colonel William J. Donovan, of Buffalo.
For Lieutenant Governor—F. Trubee Davison, of Long Island.
For Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals—Judge Cuthbert W. Pound, of Lockport.
For United States Senator—George Z. Medaile, of New York City.
For representatives—at-large—Nicholas H. Pinto, of Brooklyn, and Sherman L. Lowell, of Fredonia.
The Republicans staged a great parade and red fire demonstration for Col. Donovan in Buffalo last night. Thousands of persons marched through the streets to the Broadway auditorium, where 6,000 spectators listened to Donovan make his speech of acceptance.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 5.—Guess who is out here holding a convention, that you never thought would show their faces again? Yep, "the bankers." The Reconstruction Finance Corporation fixed 'em up so they could make the trip.
They are likeable rascals, and now that we are all wise to 'em, and it's been shown that they don't know any more about finances than the rest of us know about our businesses (which has proven to be nothing), they are getting just as human as the groceryman, the druggist or the filling station man. This depression has been a great equalizer. It's done away entirely with the smart man. So the bankers are here having a good time. They don't feel that they have any position to uphold. They are just a lot of Elks.
Yours,
Will Rogers

Tammany Hall Is Badly Shaken

Democratic Convention In New York Routs Tammany Candidate

SMITH ROOSEVELT IN HAND-SHAKING

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—Al Smith has shaken hands publicly with Franklin D. Roosevelt—and between them they have shaken Tammany Hall to its foundation.
Politically, that is a highly important development in New York, and it may prove of even more importance in the presidential election next month.

Tammany took one of the worst lickings in years in the state convention just ended here and Smith and Roosevelt administered it. Tam Tiger went back to the city nursing numerous wounds and without being in a very favorable position for retaliation.

Tammany Tiger Tamed
Smith and Roosevelt found common ground in their advocacy of Col. Herbert H. Lehman for the gubernatorial nomination. John F. Curry, the Tammany leader, did not want him. With his up-state allies, Curry backed Mayor John B. Thacher of Albany. He backed him to such a dangerous hour that for a time it appeared possible the Democrats would not be able to get under the midnight legal hour for filing. But in the end the combination

ILLINOIS SEEKS TO PROSECUTE INSULLS

Plan Action To Return Insulls To Face Trial

State's Attorney In Chicago Will Ask For Funds To Extradite Insulls

IGNORE TELEGRAMS ASKING SURRENDER

Samuel And Martin J. Insull, Utilities Magnates, Now Fugitives From Justice

(International News Service) CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—A prolonged battle with the state of Illinois to return Samuel and Martin J. Insull to the United States to face charges of embezzlement and larceny.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson planned to go before the Cook County Board and ask for funds with which to carry on the anticipated fight for the extradition of the Insull brothers, who were indicted by the grand jury yesterday.

The prosecutor dispatched a telegraphed request to Gov. Louis L. Emmerson at Springfield to institute extradition proceedings immediately. Authorities at the state capital, however, advised Swanson that the state can make no formal move until Cook county guarantees expenses of any litigation which might ensue from the attempt to bring Samuel Insull back from France and his brother from Canada.

The state's attorney thereupon made known his intention of asking the county for appropriation of $10,000 to cover expenses of extradition.

Become Fugitives

That both the Insull brothers may resist efforts to bring them back to the scene of their financial triumphs and downfall was indicated by their failure to answer Swanson's messages asking that they return voluntarily. Technically they became fugitives from justice the moment the three true bills, naming them, were returned by the county grand jury.

Samuel Insull was charged individually with two specific offenses involving the abstraction of funds from treasuries of his companies. His brother was accused of three crimes. The grand jury fixed bail at $25,000 on each offense.

These are the kind of days which cause street car operators to have gray hairs. Wet leaves fall on the street car tracks which make the rails more slippery than ice.

Three North street youngsters just can't wait for Halloween. Last evening they were running up and down the street, each disguised in a weird false-face. They jumped at grown-ups who were passing by and shouted loud "boos."

One week from today, in 1492, Columbus and his burly crew sighted this great land, America. That was a mere matter of 440 years ago, less one week, if Pa New's arithmetic is above reproach.

Pa saw a truck parked on North Cedar street yesterday afternoon that was without an inspection sticker.

It may be dry out through the middle and eastern part of the state, but enough rain has fallen in the local district during the past few weeks to keep the Shenango continually raising. Another tenth of a foot was gained during the past 24 hours, bringing the level to almost four feet at the water plant. The low mark was three feet.

Pa New has often seen people set their watches by the First Christian church tower clock but this morning he saw something really unusual: a man setting the hands of a large alarm clock to agree with the church timepiece. The gentleman then climbed into his automobile, placed the alarm clock in the back seat, and drove nonchalantly away.

Rev. D. L. Ferguson, new pastor of the Highland United Presbyterian congregation is trying to solve a mystery—what became of his trunk which contained most of his wardrobe. The new pastor came from Richmond, Indiana last week, via auto. His trunk was on the back of his car. After traveling quite a long distance, he discovered that the trunk was missing. He travelled back on the route for fifty or sixty miles, but found no trace of the trunk. It had disappeared. And of course, his wardrobe had also vanished. So far, the mystery is as far from solution as when he first discovered that the trunk was missing.

When John Lienert, 1105 Delaware avenue, goes to the Taylor street quarters of the Eintracht Singing Society tonight for the choir's customary rehearsal, fond memories of other years will just naturally recur to him. And the reason will be that it was just 30 years ago to the day that he made his debut as an Eintracht singer. Only two days before that, October 3, 1902, he's arrived here a stranger from Transylvania, but his rich tenor voice soon introduced him. He's now an Eintracht officer.

TAMMANY HALL IS BADLY SHAKEN

ed influence of Smith and Roosevelt proved too much for him. It marked the first defeat of Tammany in a real contest in state affairs for a long time.

Mutual friends of Smith and Roosevelt were elated today over the melting of the iceberg that has separated the two since the contest for the Democratic presidential nomination started many months ago.

Friends Elated

Democratic leaders in the present campaign have frankly worried over Smith's complete separation from the 1932 candidate, his failure to mention his name, and his penchant for taking sly digs at some of Roosevelt's utterances, such as "the forgotten man."

And while no one pretends the reconciliation has been complete, and no one doubts that coolness has and will persist between them, nevertheless Smith did shake hands publicly last night, greeted him cordially as "Frank" and posed for innumerable pictures for the poyoped photographers, while some 10,000 Democrats cheered in frenzied fashion.

To Smith had been given the assignment of nominating Lehman and to Roosevelt of seconding it as a delegate from his home county.

Shake Hands

As he was pushed, red faced and perspiring, to the platform, Smith handed down a long line, shaking hands on every side. Immediately behind the speaker's rostrum sat Roosevelt. He had risen as "Al" pushed his way through the crowd, and was standing as Smith reached the rostrum.

Their hands met midway. "How are you, Frank?" said Smith. "How are you, Al?" responded Roosevelt smiling.

In the struggle through the milling mob to get Smith on the platform, the photographers had been shoved off and so lost the coveted picture. After order had been restored, they posed for five minutes and after Smith had spoken, they posed again, shaking hands.

tive said flatly: "I do not approve cancellation of these debts."

Appealing further to the mortgage stricken farmers of the corn belt and elsewhere, the President said he would insist that the next session of congress re-organize the federal land banks in such fashion as to give the ruralists actual, rather than theoretical relief.

No Economic Patent Medicine

Striking at Governor Roosevelt's several speeches on farm relief, Mr. Hoover told his audience: "I come to you with no economic patent medicine, especially compounded for farmers. I refuse to offer counterfeit currency or false hopes. I will not make any pledge to you which I cannot fulfill."

The President leveled his biggest guns chiefly on Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee, and the Democratic program put through the house last session under Garner's guidance. Speaking specifically of what he termed the "pork barrel" public building bill, the measure to pay off the bonus with fiat money and the effort to revoke the flexible clause of the tariff act, he said: "These measures were not simply gestures for vote catching. These ideas and measures represented the true sentiments and doctrines of the majority of the control of the Democratic party. At no time in public discussion of the vital issues of this campaign has any Democratic candidate, high or low, disavowed these destructive acts which must ever again if they come to power. Do you propose to place these men in power and subject this country to that sort of measures and policies?"

Hostile Demonstration Dwindles

The farmers under leadership of Milo Reno, who have been staging their widely publicized "farm holiday," put on their threatened, but failed to make a dent in the city's consciousness. About 2,000 of them, including Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, paraded several hours before the presidential special arrived. So far as the Hoover party knew personally, there had been no demonstration.

Speaking of the long battle against depression, the President revealed for the first time that America once had been off two weeks removed from going off the gold standard, but he said that a wise and courageous ous Republican administration had guided the country, and with it, the world, back toward prosperity. And, threatening what might happen should the Democrats come into power, he said:

Things Could Be Worse

"Thousands of our people in their bitter distress and losses today are saying that 'things could not be worse.'"

"Let no man tell you that it could not be worse. It could be so much worse that these days now, distressing as they are, would look like veritable prosperity."

The stops today where President Hoover will address station crowds informally include Valparaiso and Fort Wayne, Ind.; Lima, Crestline, Mansfield, Massillon, Canton and Alliance, Ohio, and Greensburg and Johnstown, Pa.

His special will reach Washington early tomorrow morning.

The depression has everyone in its grip but the "Y" is giving the women a chance to shake it by building up health and having a pleasant time while doing it. They can forget their troubles for at least one hour a week by joining the gym and health classes.

Classes will be commenced Thursday morning and evening (tomorrow). They fit any type of individual. There are gym classes for the business girl and young lady at home, which include exercises, games, tap dancing, etc. There are the reducing or health classes, consisting of exercises to reduce every part of the body, combined with a scientific study of food, calories and diets. Members learn how to reduce safely and sanely.

Children are not omitted by any means. A Saturday morning class is being arranged for them.

"THINGS COULD NOT BE WORSE"

SPEAKING before a vast audience in Des Moines, Iowa, the heart of the farm belt, last night, President Herbert Hoover, is his first campaign speech was in a fighting mood. He minced no words in discussing the issues, and his attitude on the pressing questions of the hour.

The president related the terrific battle that United States has been waging against depression, and expressed the conviction that the battle has been won and the nation is making steady progress towards recovery.

Digressing enough to discuss the idea that is prevalent in the minds of some who are in distress and have suffered heavy losses, that "Things Could Not Be Worse", the president declared, "Let no man tell you that it could not be worse. It could be so much worse that these days now, distressing as they are, would look like veritable prosperity."

And let there be no mistaking these words of the president. They are the blunt truth, and are a fundamental reason why the voters should not be led blindly into making a colossal blunder at the polls next November.

The administration is working the nation steadily out of the depression. It is no time for experimenting with a new administration.

WHEAT FOR CHINESE

Some time ago the farm board executed a master stroke of business by selling to China on long credit terms a considerable quantity of surplus wheat. Under the circumstances it was good business and a transaction that met with popular approval.

There is a chance to repeat the transaction with the Chinese government in the market for 15,000,000 bushels of wheat and the white house lost no time in summoning a conference to take advantage of the opportunity if such a move should seem advisable.

Congress paved the way for deals of this kind when it authorized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance foreign sales of farm surpluses likely to have a depressing effect on present prices. So all that remains is to agree on a price and credit terms.

Wheat holdings are still large enough to depress the market, so any reduction of the surplus can boost prices, which is the thing the farmers, their cooperatives and the farm board desire most.

China's ability to pay in time should be investigated, but even though the transaction should create another bad foreign debt it might prove profitable to the United States. Until it is consumed the surplus wheat benefits nobody and harms all.

FIRST CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT

A bit of aviation ancient history is amusing and interesting. It shows how far aviation has come in 20 years. It was brought to attention by a reply appearing in a newspaper question and answer column. A reader had asked about the first air voyage across the United States. The detailed answer must surprise everyone not particularly well versed in early aviation feats.

The flight was made in response to a prize of $50,000 offered for a trans-continental trip by air. The only requirements were that the whole distance had to be covered within 30 days and that the same plane had to be used all the way. Those conditions make us laugh today.

Only three contestants dared tackle the job. One of them started from San Francisco and gave up at Tucson, Ariz., more than a month later. A second started from Governor's Island in New York Harbor and cracked up at Elmira, N. Y., nine days later.

The third took off from Sheepshead Bay, N. Y., and managed to keep going off and on from September 17 to November 6. He succeeded in being the first aviator to complete a transcontinental flight, but he took more than the stipulated time and lost the prize. Weather conditions and numerous accidents delayed him. A special train followed him, carrying an emergency repair shop. It must have been a nerve-racking undertaking. But think of the improvements in design, construction, motor, and fuel which made possible this summer's spanning of the continent in 11 hours.

WOMAN'S SPHERE

Moving furniture is a woman's inalienable prerogative. It is something no man will do. He can live with the bed in one corner and the bureau in another from now until doomsday, but a woman will blush to think things haven't been changed around since she cleaned house last fall.

This demonstrates, of course, which sex is really superior. It certainly is a great relief to a tired fellow, coming in after dark, and considerably resolving not to turn on the light and waken the baby, to creep, not into bed, but into the unfriendly arms of a chair he thought was still in the attic.

Perhaps he is a little inclined occasionally to grumble when he's asked to move the piano of an evening, because the boss of the house "never did like it over there." If he has not been married long, or is very brave—and the two really amount to much the same thing—he may remind the boss of a similar remark a month or so ago, when the piano was moved to its present location. But he'll get over that. He may be the one who puts a firm foot down on other matters, but the best authorities agree that when it comes to where things shall be placed husbands have no rights.

Unfortunately, no one appears to have gathered statistics on the number of men who, on moving into a new house, have had held out to them as a dazzling inducement the cozy little room that is to be hubby's den. Of course you know what happens. First the sewing machine appears there—with a quite accidental air, as though it had just dropped in. Pretty soon, the sewing basket is there, too. And then the sewing table, the sewing chair, the yarn, the socks—they're his socks, aren't they?—the thread, the needles and all the other things that go to make up the accoutrements of a really first class den. Hubby is wise if he remains silent. For, after all, there's nothing to prevent him, after the den has been in running order for a month or so, from venturing in some night and volunteering to help on the embroidery.

As a matter of fact, there's nothing wrong with America except some of the people in it.

Death and taxes aren't exactly alike. Dodging death takes foot-work instead of head work.

The Horse Trader's Revenge
Playing Pool With Uncle
Milking the Cow.

By MARSHALL MASLIN

The old fellow told me how he got his revenge on a man who was a horse trader. They were both horse traders, but the other fellow was trickier than he was. He sold him a horse that was no good at all, patched him up, trotted him out and sold him a horse for $125 that wasn't worth $15. It was humiliating.

Years later the tricky fellow became a rich merchant, the other a prosperous dealer in antique furniture. He waited and watched and found the merchant's weak spot. It was Duncan Phyfe furniture. So he sold him a Phyfe table for $2,000, that wasn't worth more than $150, because it was a fake.

And how happily that old fellow did chuckle over his long delayed but inexpressible sweet revenge!

Where do grouches come from? From the liver, from the stomach, from the head, from the heart?.... and where do they go?

One Sunday afternoon, my uncle in an expansive mood, told his two nephews he'd take them down to the Board of Trade and teach them to play pool.

He explained everything very carefully, how to hold the cue, how to chalk it, how to sight along it and how to shoot. They were quite awkward at first and missed many shots but after about half an hour of that sort of thing, one of them forgot and made a difficult shot, and then proceeded to make 10 shots in succession without a miss.

So uncle quipped at us in an owlish sort of way and said: "I can see you boys know more about pool than I do. You've been hanging around pool rooms more than you should. Well, I'll not tell your mother."

And he never did.

Don't boast. You're not nearly so mean, nearly so weak, nearly so tough as you think you are. Don't be so arrogant!

We had a cow, and once my father thought it would be a good idea for us to learn to milk her.

He tried to teach us—just once he tried. But it was a failure. Somehow we couldn't learn. We could learn other things, like pool, but not milking. Perhaps we were afraid that if we learned we'd always have to do it.

So he gave it up, and he didn't seem to mind. I think he liked milking the cow. And we were content to have him do it. We had other, more important, things to do.

LETTERS FROM COLLEGE

Soon the college boys and girls will be writing Dad for money.

Too often the main subject of the letters of the children away from home is "the necessity of a larger allowance" or trouble and an immediate check to save the day.

While parents desire to hear from their children, much of the pleasure of receiving letters is lost because of the financial demands they are sure to contain.

What a joy it would be to get a real letter with money not mentioned.

When letters come with no regularity and always seeking for cash it is not surprising that parents think that a shortage of cash was incentive to write.

Young People ought to realize that in the majority of cases where boys and girls are sent to college the home folk are sacrificing; the fathers and mothers are getting along without something.

This is especially true at the present time.

All incomes are curtailed, many are borrowing if they can get the money to send the children to school.

Boys and girls should cut themselves down to the lowest limit for personal outlay as the tuition and board and incidentals to the trip are well high prohibitive in the majority of households.

LIBERTY

Is the right to become our best. Is an invitation to grow. Is the right to keep our eyes on the stars. Is never to be confused with ill-cense. Is the right to serve, not to exploit. Is never liberty if it is at the expense of our fellows. Is the greatest compliment God ever paid man.

Gandhi's Astounding Power Thrills Observers Of World

Leader Of India In Compromise With British Empire And Aristocracy Of His Own People Held To Have Shaken Traditions Of Centuries

An old man consents to eat breakfast under a mango tree in far off India and a sigh of relief goes around the world. Mahatma Gandhi by his recent fast bends both the British empire and the haughty Hindus in great measure to his will, in the political arrangements for representation of the "untouchables."

"The Mahatma's apparent success is an impressive demonstration of the survival of the force of personal influence in the world's affairs," says the BOSTON EVENING TRANSCRIPT. "That 'one need not approve Gandhi's political strategy or concede that wisdom marks all his contentions in order that one may recognize the moral sublimity in his devotion to his people's political and economic advancement,' is the tribute of the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS. Paying high tribute to the personality of Gandhi, the KANSAS CITY TIMES declares: 'He emerges as the most powerful of living leaders. His ordeal will enhance his prestige abroad as certainly as it will consolidate his authority in India. Neither Stalin nor Mussolini could have performed such a feat by sheer force of personality. This threat to starve himself compelled Hindu leaders to reach a compromise on a subject which involves prejudices of centuries.'"

As the MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL puts it: "It is strange that the self-abstinence from food of a wizened old man should divert the attention of a great empire from other momentous matters. It is strangest of all that representatives of the highest caste Hindus should cast aside religious traditions and convictions of 5000 years in touching elbows with 'untouchables' to the end of inducing one man to take food."

And the PROVIDENCE EVENING BULLETIN declares: "There is no denying, after this exhibition, the tremendous power that the shrunken Mahatma wields." The BALTIMORE SUN estimates the victory thus: "It may well be attained in his dramatic career as the most powerful leader millions of Hindus have ever had." The DU-BUGUE CATHOLIC DAILY TRIBUNE remarks: "How this Indian leader shames the world's statesmen in this universal dark hour of economic misery. He suffers personally to gain the moral victory of securing the welfare of his country, while the so-called Christian leaders of the world powers think only of settling their differences by force, by arming and by butchery in their nationalities, keeping their own precious selves far away from danger."

The caste system in India is being vitally affected by the new agreement, as many papers point out. "If Gandhi has won a great victory it is a victory over his fellow Hindus," attests the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, which pictures "the emaciated little brown man" as putting himself against "the accumulated religious prejudice of centuries. The Occident cannot but wish him well in his task, compared to which the labors of Hercules were child's play," concludes that paper. As the NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE sees it: "The whole complex of centuries have institutions which veterans have built up to enable them to deal after a fashion with their own society simply does not apply to another society. The Gulf is impassable. India is another world and that is all there is to it." The SCRANTON TIMES is sure that "Gandhi

Weekly Health Talk

"Parents with small children are always bound to become alarmed when the dread infantile paralysis appears in a locality. It is indeed a devastating malady and gets in its paralyzing way and gets in its paralyzing way and gets in its paralyzing way."

"The malady is epidemic, parents will do well to keep their children out of a crowd and away from homes containing any kind of illness. Observance of the general health rules is also important. While not an absolute preventive against infantile paralysis, there is reason to believe that the stricter health rules a child possesses, the less likely he will be to contract any kind of a communicable illness. Consequently, if parents would daily apply some of the acute concern for their progeny that they do when the children become ill, many less little people would become sick in the first instance. And this interest can be applied painlessly and reasonably without the consciousness of any burden so far as the youngster is concerned."

"Fresh air, hand-washing before meals, well-balanced nourishing meals, plenty of sleep, as well as proper daily elimination, are cardinal rules for young and old alike. To be of advantage, however, they must be followed."

"We do not know the actual cause of infantile paralysis. We do not know accurately the manner in which it spreads. So we cannot give definite means of prevention. But it is communicable from one case to another. As a preventive, therefore, respect to the suggestions already mentioned, doses of convalescent serum seem to have some value."

"Infantile paralysis, like the other diseases that slay and maim children, is a hard customer with which to deal; indeed, it is the hardest. Therefore, respect its power by reasonable conduct. But let it rest there. Care and applied intelligence, rather than hysteria and undue alarm, should control."

Where does nickel come from?

Correctly Speaking—

The subject of an infinitive and the predicate substantive completing an infinitive should be in the objective case. For example, "The gazette reported him to be dead." ("Him" is the subject of the infinitive "to be," and not the object of "reported.") prison cell at Poona. In the words of the MERIDIAN STAR, "death of the Hindu prophet might have applied the match to the Indian powder magazine."

"The terrible meek triumphs," proclaims the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN, with a tribute to the little man's interest in books and the conclusion: "He has read through the King James version of the Bible and the Koran. He has familiarized himself with the works of Tolstol. He has read Henry Thoreau's 'Paradoxes of Civilization,' 'Life Without Principle' and 'An Essay on the Duty of Civil Disobedience.' He has renewed acquaintance with Ruskin. Altogether his intellectual and spiritual diet has been as substantial as his material diet has been thin. The world breathes more easily and partakes of its food more comfortably since Mr. Gandhi is taking a little orange juice and goat's milk, diluted with warm water. And any one who has read of the caste discrimination against the untouchables of India and who is even slightly aware of their pitiful condition will rejoice that their champion has won his case."

Rupp Planning Tour Of State

Democratic Candidate For U. S. Senator Will Visit New Castle Friday

EXTENSIVE STATE TOUR ARRANGED

(International News Service) ALLENTOWN, Pa., Oct. 5.—Lawrence H. Rupp, of this city, Democratic opponent of James J. Davis for United States Senator from Pennsylvania in the present campaign, left Tuesday on a campaign tour that will keep him in the western portion of the state the greater part of the week.

His schedule of rallies included Charleroi Tuesday night, East Pittsburgh Wednesday noon and Washington, Pa., Wednesday night; Oil City Thursday evening, and New Castle and Beaver Falls on Friday, Saturday evening, on his way back home for the week-end. Rupp will address a Berks rally at Strasstown.

The demands of his party managers are keeping Rupp exceedingly busy as head of the Democratic ticket in Pennsylvania. This will be his second trip to Pittsburgh, where a few days ago he was received with exceptional cordiality.

Pearl Button Found In Limestone Rock

George McFarland Secures Relic That May Date Back Thousands Of Years

While working in the coal fields east of the city, George McFarland of Long avenue found a curiosity in the shape of what appears to be a pearl button, imbedded in a piece of limestone. The button has five holes in it. As the limestone from which it was taken had been over one hundred feet under the surface, before the excavations, there is ample room for play of the imagination, as to its probable history.

Limestone is formed chiefly by accumulations of organic remains, such as shells, coral and the bodies of marine insects, the deposits having been made thousands of years ago according to geologists.

Finding of the pearl button in the limestone raises the question of a civilization existing in pre-historic times when this section was a part of the sea.

Donation Day Plans Progress

October 28 And 29 Set Aside For Gathering Of Food For Jameson Hospital

Slightly more than three weeks remain before the "food donation days" for the Jameson Memorial hospital, come around. These donation days, designed to help allay expenses for fruit and vegetables this winter at the hospital, will be observed on Friday and Saturday, October 28 and 29.

The Jameson Memorial Hospital Aid society, which sponsors the donation days annually, has appointed women in churches and granges through New Castle and Lawrence county to take charge of soliciting and collecting the food from the members of their respective organizations. This plan has worked most successfully in former years.

It is probable that a downtown room will be secured for the two days and that the donations will be gathered to this central point. As in former years the donations will be placed in the hospital lobby, also.

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 5.—For the first time in its 81 years, Westminster College has an enrollment over 600. Figures from the office of Dr. J. A. Swindler, registrar, indicate that 607 students are registered for the first semester, an increase of 80 over that of the first semester of last year.

This record enrollment for the first semester would indicate a net enrollment, with second semester additions in February, of 625 or 630 students. The largest enrollment previous to this year was 556 last year, and previous to that the largest enrollment was 541 in 1929-30.

Fresh Class Large
This year's freshman class numbers 254 students, the largest entering class in the college's history. The other classes are: sophomore, 156; junior, 90; senior, 74; special, 17; unclassified, nine; graduate, seven.

Members of the freshman class represent, in addition to Pennsylvania towns, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Illinois, Kentucky, Upper class students are from Michigan, Massachusetts, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, and Missouri.

This year's increased enrollment has necessitated appointment of three additional instructors. Freshman men students are rooming in fraternity houses and private homes, while women students have filled to capacity both Hillside dormitory and Browne hall, and an overflow group is quartered in two dormitory houses.

Parents of two freshmen attended Oberlin, Waynesburg, Princeton, Denison, Penn State, Wash-Jeff. Other parents of freshmen attended Case, Wittenburg, Northwestern, Rochester, Notre Dame, Ohio North-ern, Chicago, Geneva, University of Pennsylvania, University of Cincinnati, Beloit, Allegheny, Syracuse, Wesleyan, Brown, Beaver, Harvard, Edinboro, Bucknell, Purdue, Ripon, Shippensburg, Clarion, Cornell, Fairmont, and Jefferson.

Seventy members of the first-year class are Presbyterians, 66 are United Presbyterians, 47 are Methodists, 14 are Lutherans, 11 are Catholics, eight are Episcopalians, 15 are Baptists, four are Congregationalists, four are Christians, six are Hebrew, and four are United Brethren.

Ninety-three of the freshmen are 18 years old, while 71 first-year students are 17 years old. There are 12 freshmen who are only 16, while the oldest freshman is 23.

County Treasurer Gives Game Laws

Booklets Containing Laws
Failed To Accompany Hunting License Tags

County Treasurer William O. Pitts reports that no booklets containing the game laws came with the hunting license this year. He doesn't know whether this was an oversight or any economy move, but from data which he has secured he has figured out the following digest of the game laws:

Wild Turkeys: The open season will be November 1, 2, 7, 8, 9, 11, 17, 18, 19, 24, 25 and 26, which is Tuesday and Wednesday of the first week; Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of the second week; Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the third and fourth weeks of November.

Except those counties closed to the hunting and taking of Wild Turkeys during 1932.

Ringnecked Pheasants, males only; the open season will be the same as Wild Turkeys.

Ruffed Grouse: The open season will be the same as Wild Turkeys; the daily bag is reduced to two and the season limit to twelve.

Virginia Partridge: commonly called quail, gambel quail, valley quail. The open season will be the same as wild turkeys. The daily bag is reduced to six and the season limit to twenty-four.

Rabbits (Cottontail): The open season will be November 1, to November 30.

Hares (Snowshoe or varying): The open season will be November 1, to November 30.

Bear, over 1 year old: The season will be November 10 to November 30. The daily and season bag limit by hunting party reduced to three while the daily and season bag limit by an individual will be one.

Season closed: There will be no open season on Hungarian Partridges, Reeves Pheasant, antelope, deer and Elk during 1932.

Federal and state regulations migratory game birds.

Rails: The open season will be September 1 to November 30, with a daily bag of fifteen and unlimited for season.

Gallinules: The open season will be September 1 to November 30. The daily bag will be fifteen and unlimited for season. (This is erroneously classified under "Waterfowl" with the open season November 1 to December 31, on back of hunter's license.)

Shenango P. T. A. Banquets Leaders

Assistant County Superintendent And Supervising Principal Given Testimonial

SEVERAL SPEAKERS OFFER TRIBUTES

The auditorium of the Shenango township high school was transformed into a banquet hall Tuesday evening, with Miss Sarah McCombs and her committee doing a most artistic piece of work in decorating the place in red and white, with the centerpieces on the long tables formed of bittersweet held in black vases. The vivid shades of the fall flowers added beauty to all corners of the room and places were arranged for ninety three. The affair was arranged in honor of Clare Book, assistant county superintendent, and Glenn W. Johnson, supervising principal.

Rev. V. L. Bloomquist, pastor of the Savannah Methodist church, invoked the Divine blessing before the serving of a most excellent menu and during the banquet pep singing added zest to the gathering, with Miss Margaret Hertzler as the leader.

Miss Prudence Sankey arranged the program, which was in charge of Harold Klingensmith, who acted as toastmaster. He cleverly introduced George Body, vice president of the Shenango township school board, who welcomed the new supervising principal, Glenn W. Johnson, and eulogized the work of Clare Book, who was former principal, but has now been chosen as assistant county superintendent of schools.

William Brenner spoke for the high school students; Margaret Cowmeadow spoke for the faculty and pledged the co-operation of the teachers to Mr. Johnson, just as they had to Mr. Book.

Howard Boston, a student of Penn State, spoke for the alumni and highly praised Mr. Book as a principal and Mr. Johnson as a coach and teacher while he was a student in the high school.

Weingartner Speaks

The speaker of the evening, Senator George T. Weingartner, was then introduced and he spoke of the origin of the Shenango township school a little over six years ago, how the bond issue was floated and the splendid consolidated school was built.

He stated that at the opening of the school there were 675 pupils enrolled and today the school has 1251 students. He congratulated Mr. Book and Mr. Johnson on their splendid work in the past and wished them every success for the future, and he also congratulated the school on having these splendid men.

A quartet: Bill Seech, Francis Clark, Garvin Collingwood and Harry Marshall, sang four numbers, the first being a contest number: "Galloping Dick"; "Minstrel Boys"; "The Drums"; and "Down In Mobile". They were accompanied by Miss Hertzler.

There were fourteen seated at the guest table: Clare P. Book, Glenn W. Johnson, Harold Klingensmith, Mr. and Mrs. George T. Weingartner, and Mrs. J. C. Green, Prof. and Mrs. J. C. Syling, Rev. and Mrs. V. L. Bloomquist, George Body, Mae Book and Randall Book.

The affair was sponsored by the Shenango Parent-Teacher association, under the supervision of Mrs. J. A. Weingartner, president, and her committee: Mrs. W. E. Geiger and Mrs. Walter Hoover.

Texas Court Has Ruled In Favor Of "Ma" Ferguson

Austin, Tex., Oct. 5.—Gov. Ross Sterling's election contest suit against the nomination of Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson was ruled out of court here today by District Judge W. F. Robertson. The court held that the legislature was the only body which has proper authority to hear such a contest.

Gov. Sterling charged in his suit that 50,000 illegal votes were cast in the election and asked for a recount.

May Place Tax On Bachelors

Pittsburgh Considers Taxing Unmarried Men And Women To Get Revenue

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—Bachelors, watch out!

A tax on unmarried men and women, swains and sweethearts, not to speak of divorcees, has been proposed to the city fathers here as a means of raising new revenue. The list of suggestions was made public today by W. Y. English of the councilmanic finance committee.

The city is seeking new revenue under the state act permitting the city tax to tax anything not now taxed.

Authors of the suggestion to tax unmarried persons got their idea from continental countries where such a procedure is almost universal.

Welsh Night At Tabernacle

Welsh Singers To Present Program During Service Tonight

"Welsh" night will be observed this evening in the tabernacle tent on South Mill Street and the center section of seats will be reserved for the Welsh of the city. A vast choir of Welsh voices will be heard in a song service preceding the sermon and it is anticipated that seats will be at a premium.

Tuesday evening began the third week of the revival services, which are city wide, and a large delegation from the Italian Methodist church was present. The audience numbered well over three thousand, despite the threatening weather.

A feature of the song service which preceded the sermon each evening was the singing of Rev. Warner Cole of the First Baptist church of Painesville, Ohio. He is a particular friend of A. W. McKee and Dr. Philpott. He was accompanied by his wife, Rev. and Mrs. George Cole of Cleveland, friends of the evangelistic party, were also present.

Rev. Charles F. Whetsell, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene offered the evening prayer and the song service closed with the singing of "Bread of Heaven," the campaign song.

Christ's Ownership

Dr. P. W. Philpott took as his scripture lesson for the evening the nineteenth chapter of Luke, the latter part of the chapter, telling of the triumphant entry of Christ into Jerusalem, but basing his sermon, not on the triumphal entry but upon the colt which was used in the entry.

He stressed the fact that everything belongs to Him, and when Peter and John were sent for this specific colt, the owner was pleased to give this small gift to the Christ. He said the colt typified some of the lesser things in life, which helps Christ in his march to glory.

He spoke of the recognition of the Divine Lordship, the implicit obedience of the disciples in following Christ's commands, and the big things which come from the small things in life.

He stressed the fact that Christians sing and talk "Take My All" but when faced with this test there is much hesitation in giving up what they love, and told of the joy which comes to the heart when one gives a little gift to Christ, which exalts Him and closes his discourse by saying "Let God have His way with you."

An invitation was extended to those who have not already given their lives to Christ to take the stand immediately and many went to the prayer room on this mission. The meetings continue each evening at 7:30 and will continue until October 16.

Opposition To Huber's Request

Five Carriers Oppose Petition For Freight Line Through This Locality

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The second attempt of Louis M. Huber to acquire a certificate of public convenience to transport freight between Pittsburgh and Farrell, a route over which he has been operating for a year, met the opposition of five freight carriers at a public service commission hearing here today.

The route over which Huber desires to provide daily freight service extends from Pittsburgh via Rochester, New Brighton, Wampum, West Middlesex, Sharon, New Castle to Farrell.

The Harmony Short Line, Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad, and H. J. Keyes, opposed the application because they believe the prevailing services provided to all cities is adequate.

Huber insisted the additional service was necessary despite the fact that all the places are included in routes operated over by certificate holders. He testified his proposed route was not similar to that of the other carriers because he does not intend to enter Ellwood City nor carry any freight from Pittsburgh to be distributed in Beaver Falls.

Cross-examination showed he has operated over the route for a year without a certificate. His failure to comply with the state law, was attributed to his understanding that no concern operating over a route before 1914 was obliged to acquire a certificate. He maintained the route in question was operated prior to that date but was unable to name the operator.

ENOUGH TURKISH BUT NOT TOO MUCH

Turkish tobacco sometimes runs hundreds of little leaves to the pound. In cigarettes it is used much as seasoning is in food, for flavor and better taste.

You know that seasoning has to be used right . . . just enough of it, not too much.

Chesterfield puts in just the right amount of Turkish tobacco—the best kinds—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun. These are not merely blended, but cross-blended with ripe, mellow Domestic tobaccos.

Enough Turkish, not too much—that's one reason why Chesterfields taste better—why they have a delicacy of aroma you do not find in other cigarettes.

SAY STATE SENTIMENT STRONG FOR HOOVER

Editors Make Their Forecasts

Overwhelming Sentiment Is Expressed That Hoover Will Sweep State

ALL SEE REDUCED MAJORITY, HOWEVER

Editor's Note:—In two preceding articles, I. N. S. analyzed the editorial-political opinion of Pennsylvania editors, on the outcome of the Hoover-Roosevelt, Davis-Rupp contests. In the following article, the editors explain why they believe Pennsylvania voters will vote for a continuance of the Republican administration. I. N. S.

By LEO V. DOLAN
Pennsylvania Editor, International News Service
(Copyright, 1932, by International News Service.)

In signifying an overwhelming editorial sentiment that President Herbert Hoover and the Republican ticket generally would sweep through to victory in November, many Pennsylvania editors took occasion to amplify the reasons for their choice.

International News Service today presents excerpts from the most interesting comments. Since lack of space precludes any possibility of carrying all the comments, or any comments in full, excerpts were chosen from statements of editors from every section of the state to present a representative cross-section editorial survey.

The excerpts follow:
George W. Conway, The New Castle News:—"Our estimate for Hoover's plurality over Roosevelt is 300,000. There is scant possibility of Senator Davis not being elected."

Walter L. Sanborn, North Penn Reporter, Landsdale:—"We are unable to persuade ourselves that Pennsylvania will be for Roosevelt for president or Rupp for the U. S. Senate. Control seems to get out of hand in Montgomery."

E. J. Lynett, Scranton Times:—"Pennsylvania is a doubtful state with the chances in favor of Hoover. With the notoriety that Senator Davis is getting, on account of his trial for the violation of lottery laws, I think that Lawrence H. Rupp will be elected U. S. Senator."

Alex Thompson, Scranton Scrantonian:—"President Hoover will carry Pennsylvania by a majority running into hundreds of thousands. Senator Davis, by all means, will win."

G. A. Stewart, Clearfield Progress:—"Hoover will carry Pennsylvania. The cities will do it. Davis will be victorious. Rupp is unknown."

Meredith Meyers, Lewistown Sentinel:—"Based on a personal tour of nine counties in Central Pennsylvania, there is no question in my mind that Roosevelt will carry this section by at least two to one. If the same sentiment prevails throughout the rest of the state, Pennsylvania's electoral vote will be in the Roosevelt column. Despite the lottery trial, Davis will slide through mostly on the strength of the big vote he will get in Philadelphia."

C. M. Bomberger, Jeannette News-Dispatch:—"The thinking voter is getting weary of appeals to unrest and discontent. The Republican ticket throughout will carry Westmoreland County in November."

Joseph Breig, Vandergrift News, (Westmoreland County):—"Governor Roosevelt will carry Pennsylvania. This belief, more a hunch than a measured judgment, is based simply upon the temper of the voters as I see it. Senator Davis will be victorious. The people are not much worried about lotteries since they know everybody has 'em."

Joseph F. Biddle, Huntingdon News:—"President Hoover will carry Pennsylvania and Senator Davis will win over Lawrence Rupp."

W. B. Ramsey, Sharon Herald:—"I believe Hoover will carry the state. As for Senator, it looks like Davis."

Pierre Smith, Punxsutawney Spirit:—"That Hoover will carry the state, no one doubts. But unless political factions within the Republican party speedily come to the realization that their party comes first, Hoover's majority will be less than a half million votes."

E. J. Breece, Phoenixville Daily Republican:—"We believe President Hoover will carry Pennsylvania. We believe Senator Davis will be victorious."

John J. McSweeney, Wilkes-Barre Evening News:—"The Evening News believes President Hoover will carry Pennsylvania and that Senator Davis will win his trial has some adverse effect."

John V. Heffernan, Wilkes-Barre Sunday Independent:—"Hoover will carry Pennsylvania by a greatly reduced plurality. Davis should win although his former popularity has collapsed like a gay nineties tire."

John J. Mead, Jr., Erie Times:—"With any kind of leadership, I believe that Pennsylvania would be tallied in the Democratic column. Lacking that, it will go it traditional way, but by no wide gap between."

Managing Editor, Philadelphia Daily News:—"There is every reason to believe that Pennsylvania is safely in the Hoover column. Pennsylvania's Republicanism is seldom in danger and rarely goes down to defeat. Less the party splits. U. S. Senator Davis seems assured of victory."

U. G. Baker, Susquehanna Evening Transcript:—"Hoover, by a slightly reduced majority. Davis, by a greatly reduced majority."

A. C. MacIntyre, Oil City Blizzard:—"Hoover will carry the state. It is hardly likely Roosevelt will get the vote given Al Smith. Davis should win easily."

Bert F. Kline, Homestead Messenger:—"The organization's support thrown to Hoover will just slide him through a winner. Davis should win."

Cubs And Yankees Have Had "Fling" Others Will Shine

Neither New York Yanks Nor Chicago Cubs May Enter 1933 World's Series

Weak Pitching More Than Good Playing By Yankees Hurt 1932 Games

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—It's a long time to the next world series and so many things can happen that it might be well to confine myself today to two things that probably won't. Neither the New York Yankees nor the Chicago Cubs figure to be in the next series. They have had their brief all-too-revealing moment in the sun.

They will now make way for others who may be no more deserving but at least will be no less. If the world series proved anything, beyond the known fact that robust hitters will always annihilate weak pitching, it was that both clubs were inordinately bad.

Weak Pitching
In only one department, the attack, were the Yankees anything more than ordinary. It wasn't exactly an attack either. It was more the performance of grown men against children, the record of English cricketers who score 256, not out, just before tea is poured. I trust I'm violating no confidence when I say that real major league pitching would stop the cricketers. It also would have stopped or at least restrained the Yankees. They are good up there; in fact very good, but not fool-proof. It merely happened that the Cubs were weakest at the point of their supposed strength which is a pretty valid commentary on the National League.

After their record of winning the pennant by more than twelve games and the world series in a minimum of four, it isn't easy to guess, off-hand, what club could beat the Yankees in 1933. Possibly it would be simpler to say that the Yankees will beat themselves. The Athletics, for instance, were further out in front at the end of 1931, yet a 25 game margin was wiped out between seasons. In fewer words, once a club starts to go, the end comes swiftly and as I see them, the Yanks are ready.

Yanks About Through
Sewell was through in Cleveland three years ago and wasn't expected to either start or finish the current season. You can't go too far with a man like that. Neither can the club go much further with a man like Lazzari. He was through last spring by Joe McCarthy's admission and he's about through now by his own, tacitly established through the medium of the series. The very difficulty causing his play to be received with considerable acclaim. Actually, however, he only succeeded in making easy chances look hard and hard chances look impossible.

I recall George Burns, the old first baseman, doing much the same for Cleveland in the series of 1920. How accurate the throw, he always caught it while standing on his haunches.

Anyhow, it seems that two positions in the Yankee infield are dubious and, what with Crosetti's unsteadiness, I think we can add a third. Three holes in the infield would ruin the Yanks next time. Even if their outfield was good, which it isn't, Mr. Ruth was a very bad outfielder in the series and, with six additional months on which to doddle and drip up, he'll get no better with much alacrity.

Cubs Are Done
As for the Cubs, there's nothing much to be done about them. They're no better than some in the National League and no worse than others. But, either way, they're not the club to come back off that beating in the series and repeat, even in a league that has won only seven games in thirty played in the last six world series.

The Cubs were so bad, in fact, that their defeat added little to the Yankees' prestige. Strength cannot be established by beating the weak.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

University of Wisconsin has three captains but no teams for them to captain. They were named to their honors last spring before the board of regents ordered a reduction in athletic expenditures which eliminated three varsity teams. Tony Kornjack is captain of the non-existent tennis team, Dick Ferguson leads a mythical wrestling squad and Roy Kubista a playerless hockey team.

A Wallis Myers, noted British tennis expert has arranged a list of places for tennis stars which shows that America is sitting on top of the net world. He has placed Ellsworth Vines first in a list of 10 men players with Henry Cochet second and Jean Borotra of France third. Mrs. Helen Wills Moody is assigned first place in the women's list and Helen Jacobs is given second place by virtue of her American title win and appearance in the Wimbledon final. Fourth and fifth place in the men's list has been delegated to Wilmer Allison and C. Sutter of the U. S.

From Kansas City comes a story of how Harry Horton, former major league pitcher was traded for a bottle of cold beer. Harry told the story to a newspaperman. He was playing with Hutchinson in the Western league in the year '07. The visiting club was Topeka. The latter club was hard up for hurlers and tried to effect a deal with the Hutchinson club. The Hutchinson manager asked the Topeka pitcher what the latter would give for Horton. "How about a cold bottle of beer?" asked the Topeka manager. "Sold!" replied the Hutchinson manager. The next year he went to the Senators, later drifted back to Little Rock, remained in baseball until 1917 and is now a gasoline station employee.

Suey Welsh, manager, Gorilla Jones, former welterweight champion, Sammy Odell, lightweight, and Red Hetzel, trainer of Akron, stopped off here enroute from Atlantic City to Akron to visit the engineer of this column yesterday. While here Suey Welsh was approached on the subject of a possible second Henry Firpo-Gorilla Jones battle. Sometime they fought a spectacular battle at Milwaukee. Suey said that he had scheduled eight fights for Gorilla and that he would be busy for some time to come. After the eight fights Welsh declared he would give the Gorilla a rest. Jones lost his title to Marcel Titi on a foul during a fight in France.

There is a rumor current in New York that Jack Dempsey, former king of punch may start another attempt to come back and that his former manager Jack Kearns may direct his affairs. When Mickey Walker fought Max Schmeling the fans were surprised to see Jack step over and shake the hand of Kearns after he had met the two principals. Until that there was no suspicion that the feud between Dempsey and Kearns could be healed. It may come to pass that the rumor concerning Dempsey's second attempt to come back may be the bunk. Nevertheless the fans in New York are talking Dempsey and Kearns again. It is hard to keep them out of headlines.

Another report from New York which is causing some comment is the report that the management of the New York Yankees will lop off some of the salary paid to Babe Ruth, the Yankees manager. It is said, fear that Bambino may not be able to play through a full season next year. Several years ago he had an ailment which resulted in physicians putting him on a strict diet. Before the world series opened this year he had another attack. He is also said to have a fluttering heart. There is one certainty and that is when Babe steps to the bat the fans hear his flutter because when he hits he hits the ball and generally lands outside the limits of the playing field.

Walter Johnson is out as manager of the Washington team of the American league. Clark Griffith, owner of the Senators has declared his intention of a chance. At yet, Griffith asserted, he has not selected Johnson's successor. Walter was one of the greatest pitchers the game has known and has been a manager since 1929. During 1928 he served as manager of the Newark Bears. He went to the Senators a kid of 19 from a semi-professional team in Idaho in 1907. Save in 1927 when the Senators finished sixth they have been in the upper bracket.

Hygro, ace of the western sprint brigade from the Nevada stock farm outstepped a field of nine to win the fourteenth running of the Capital Handicap and $5,175 at Laurel yesterday.

A track and field meet and a football game between Burgetstown Union and East Huntington will be staged during the Burgetstown fair beginning today. A 10 mile marathon will also add to the features. Harness races and boxing are also attractions.

Football Briefs

(International News Service)
ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 5.—With Coach Gil Dobie still ill, Cornell today received another blow. Bill Beall, halfback and punter, will be out for about three weeks because of a badly injured shoulder.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 5.—Coach Rip Miller said today no drastic changes in Navy's eleven were planned, despite the Annapolis defeat Saturday by little William and Mary. Walkup, Harbold and Burns, injured in the game, were not badly hurt and will probably report today.

WEST POINT, Oct. 5.—The Army started drilling today for its tough game October 15 against Pittsburgh. Felix Vidal, who showed well against Furman, will be given a chance to make good as varsity quarter.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 5.—Two sophomores, Roy Auguston and Harry Leeper, were giving regular backfield men on the Northwestern squad a stiff fight for their jobs today. Because of their stellar work in last Saturday's game with Missouri, indications were that the two youths may have a chance to show their wares under heavier firing in the battle with Michigan next Saturday.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5.—Passing was emphasized in today's workout of the Ohio State football squad. Following last Saturday's unsatisfactory aerial performance against Wesleyan, Coach Sam Williamson has decided to devote more time to strengthening his Buckeyes in that department of the game. Capt. Lew Hinchman's bruised hip was still causing considerable difficulty.

DEAD BANDITS PAL GETS LONG PEN TERM
WARREN, O., Oct. 5.—Donald Johnson of Youngstown, companion of Vincent Marzona, who was killed in a Niles gasoline station robbery last April, was convicted of highway robbery and sentenced to a 10 to 25-year term in Ohio penitentiary.

Walter Kominic Is New Fullback On High Team

Hard-Hitting Kominic Replaces Injured Joe Kolodjeski At Fullback

CORAOPOLIS HAS TRICKY PASSES

"New Castle High will be 'in there' Friday night with a fighting team." That was the way Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh answered a question today as to just how New Castle will miss the services of their star fullback Joe Kolodjeski who is out of the game for the rest of the season. It was a typical Bridenbaugh statement, evasive and yet determined. There is no getting around the fact that New Castle is going to miss Kolodjeski. He was a splendid ball carrier and a fine defensive player. He was also speedy for a big fellow and gained considerable ground.

When New Castle High trots out on the greensward of Taggart Field Friday night to do battle with a fine looking Coraopolis High team, Walter Kominic will be starting his first game as varsity regular. He has been plugging along all year as understudy to Joe Kolodjeski. "Joe" is laid up, now, and Walter will carry on.

Kominic At Fullback
Kominic reminds one of a ton of bricks falling when he smacks that opposing line. He is solid as a rock and if given any kind of an opening will get through somehow, but mostly by sheer strength.

The rest of the New Castle lineup will be same for Friday night as started against Charleroi. Coach Bridenbaugh is not figuring on breaking up the smooth working combination that walloped Charleroi. He may have something else in mind, but we promised not to tell. And then again New Castle is not underestimating this Coraopolis High team. They hammered Avalon High 27 to 0 last week and they must have something. The scouts say they look very good and that they have a tricky forward passing combination.

Scrimmage was on the bill for the red and black gridders today, with a light signal drill Thursday. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Faculty Manager Gardner is always scanning the skies, hoping for nice weather, and it looks like another fine evening.

Chicago White Sox May Offer Post To McGraw

American League Team Would Like To Have John J. McGraw At Helm

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Now that they're starting to send John McGraw to Montreal and other places where he wouldn't go, it may not seem altogether unreasonable today to name a place where he might go and, in fact, can. I can't profess to say that the man has been approached on the subject but Lou Comiskey is known to have declared that, if there is any way in which McGraw can be interested in the Chicago White Sox, there are many ways in which the Chicago White Sox can and will be interested in McGraw.

Of course, there remains the trifling technicality of Mr. Fonseca's contract as manager for 1933 but the understanding is that, if the gentleman off and take their loss, matter went that far, they'd pay the McGraw is signed or even approached, it will be the climax of an organized campaign to woo the Chicago customers away from the Cubs, a none too hazardous undertaking after what the Chicago customer has just seen of the Cubs in the world series.

The first step in the campaign was to offer non-voting stock to the citizens, the idea being that indifference does not go hand in hand with possession. The second step was the outright purchase of Simmons, Dykes and Haas from the Athletics, the third a studied attempt to establish an entente cordiale between themselves and the press boys. The press boys are very desirable when one has a loser.

Little Series To Resume Today With Newark Favorites

Winty Weather Causes Game To Be Postponed Tuesday, Breannan To Pitch

(International News Service)
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 5.—Weather permitting, the deferred fifth act of the annual drama entitled "Little World's Series" was to be enacted here this afternoon. The contest between the Minneapolis Millers, champions of the American Baseball Association, and the Newark Bears, rulers of the International League, was postponed yesterday because of wintry winds. The invading Jerseyites were favored to take today's game and break the existing tie of two games for each team. Manager Al Mamaux of the Internationals has tentatively decided to employ on the mound Don Breannan, peer of pitchers in his league. Previously Mamaux had planned to give Pete Jablonowski the hurling assignment.

The Minneapolis pitcher will be either Jess Petty or Dutch Henry. Breannan, who won 25 games during the 1932 International League campaign, heaved for the Bears in the series opener at Newark last week, holding the Millers to only four separated safeties.

Walter Johnson Is "Through"

Clark Griffith Rewards One Of Baseball's Greatest Pitchers, With Release

NOT RIGHT TYPE FOR MANAGER

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Walter Johnson, manager of the Washington American League Senators has been cut adrift, it was announced today by Clark Griffith, owner of the baseball club. Griffith said he had not decided upon next year's manager.

Johnson in his prime was acknowledged as one of baseball's greatest pitchers, and the equal if not the greatest of the speedball twirlers of all time. He has been managing the team with which he played his entire major league career, for four years, in which time the team finished fourth or better, three times.

Johnson managed the Newark, N. J., team of the International league for one year after his pitching days were over, and then returned to the Senators.

Joe Judge, veteran first baseman of the Senators, and captain of the team, is mentioned as the "Big Train's" successor.

Union Prepares For Youngstown

Coach Dave Boyd Puts Union Through Workout For Tough
Game Friday

Union High School football team has a tough assignment for Friday when they are scheduled to go to Youngstown, Ohio, for a battle with the strong Youngstown East High eleven.

There is to be no let-up this week for the Unionites, according to Coach Dave Boyd, who has seen Youngstown East play, report that Union is up against a tough customer, and will have to be at their best.

In Good Shape
Union High came out of the Grove City setback with several injured players. The same combination that started the Grove City game last week, may start this Friday.

The backfield showed up fine last week against the Groves, but the linemen were not up to expectation. Boyd is devoting a lot of time to his forward wall this week. Youngstown East has a big powerful line, and it is going to take a lot of fight on the part of Union to stick in there.

Union High will be back at the home field in one week to meet the last Mars High team. Zelenople will follow the Mars game, and then Union goes into the Lawrence County High school schedule meeting Bessemer and Shenango High, and will wind-up with Sandy Lake High at the Union field.

"Simmons, Foxx And Dykes Gone, That's All" Says Veteran A's Leader

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Connie Mack has no intention of further dismantling his Athletics. He said so himself Tuesday afternoon after pointing out that financial conditions alone motivated the sale of Al Simmons, Jimmy Dykes and "Mule" Haas to the Chicago White Sox.

There will be no more similar deals with any big league club this year or next, Mack said. He added: "The Athletics will be a very strong club next year. I might even go so far as to say they will win the pennant, but I won't."

"The Yankees are not a cinch to win the pennant despite their four straight victories over the Chicago Cubs this season."

LOWER IN PRICE(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Wall Street turned to the selling side today and stocks were weak.

Some support appeared after leading issues had slumped 1 to more than 3 points.

Unsettled was enhanced by weakness in grains. Wheat lost more than a cent a bushel and corn slumped to a new low. Cotton was a strong spot early in the day but subsequently lost its rise of more than 50 cents a bale.

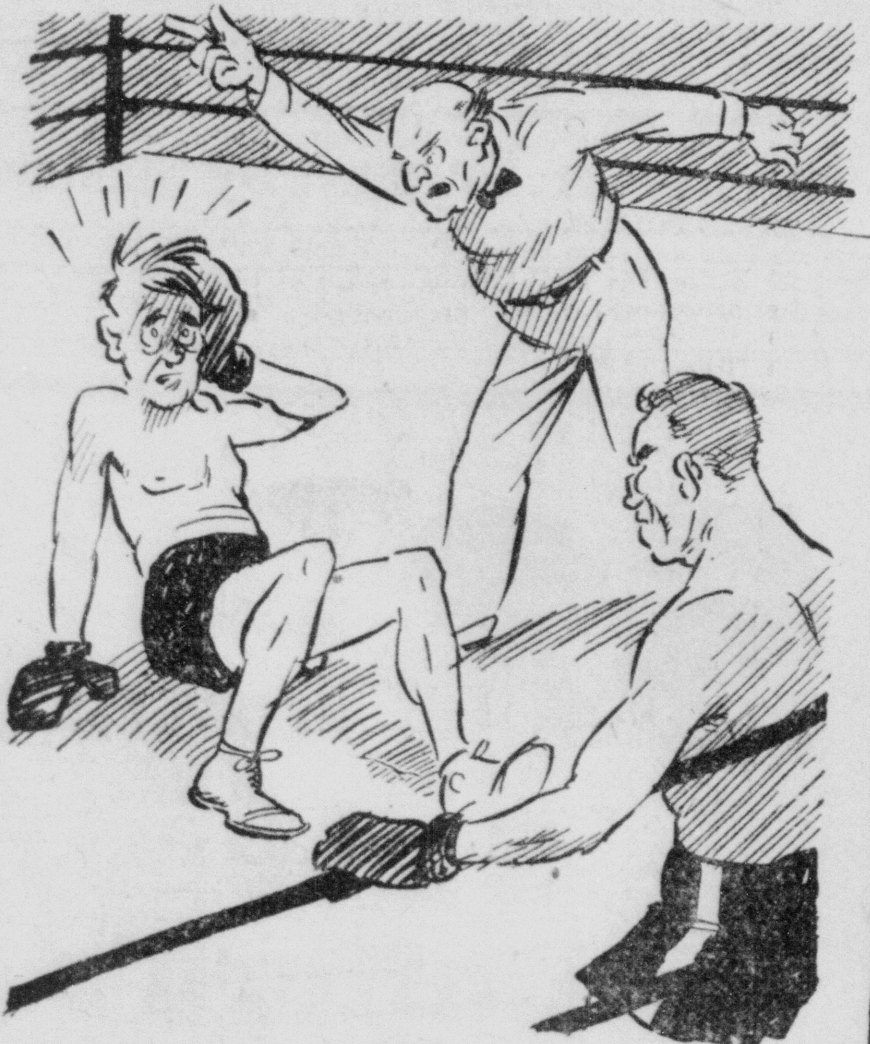

Stocks in which pool operations had been prominent were among the weakest issues. Chase Thrashing lost 3 points and United Aircraft about 2 points. Montgomery Ward was heavy.

Leaders were upset by heavy selling in U. S. Steel and American Telephone. The former lost 2 points and the latter 3. Allied Chemical slumped 3 points. Ralls were from 1 to 3 points and Utilities were weak despite the power output gain.

RAIN WELCOMED

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 5.—The steady rain which began in this district last evening and continued during the night and today was joyously welcomed by the residents. The Slippery Rock creek from which the city water is obtained, has been quite low and many chemicals were added to the water for health protection causing it to become hard water.

The drought which has lasted for the past three years had done much harm to the fruit and shade trees and many have died from the lack of water. A number of people in this vicinity have pruned their trees until there was hardly any tree left in order to save them causing a decided loss in fruit.

What, No Stunts?

It is strange to see Harold Lloyd, famous screen comedian, in the relaxed pose shown here. Usually the screen funny man is pictured falling off something or balanced on the edge of a skyscraper. But maybe Mrs. Lloyd's watchful eye is responsible for his present passivity. They are shown as they sailed from New York for a vacation in Europe.

Since the Republic has been established the country and people have gained remarkably. He explained that the government there has a hand nearly in all projects undertaken. He touched on Hitler and his rising power but stated that this man would soon be conquered.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Among the good old Spanish customs still obtaining in the college life of today is that of testing the candidates for admission to the various fraternities. It probably goes back to the days when knights were tested by fire and water, except that today the methods are slightly different.

There's the egg method, which is currently popular with one of the frats located in the college to the north, Westminster. As a means of searching out the very depths of the pledge's soul, of assaying the metal in him there's nothing like the egg method.

The process is this. The pledge, or the candidate, or whatever you care to term him, is forced to carry an egg with him during all his waking hours. If he breaks it, or some of the upper classmen slap him with a friendly greeting and egg decides to dissolve its corporation, the pledge must then carry two and if the two are broken, he carries four, ad infinitum.

The idea is to be able to park your egg somewhere where the upper classmen won't be able to mash it, and still be able to produce it when called upon.

One youth from New Castle had a lot of bad luck. He had his eggs broken so often that he was carrying a basketful before the period of testing was over and you can imagine the state of his clothes long before that. A section of his pockets would have made a tasty omelette, and every time an upper classman came near him he clucked like a Rhode Island hen.

And it's a great break for the grocers in New Westminster.

Next Saturday afternoon the new president of Westminster, Dr. R. F. Galbreath will be inducted into office with more than a little pomp and circumstance. Presidents up there come seldom enough that an induction ceremony calls for plenty of show, which seems to be OK here.

And Saturday as though you didn't know, is the last day to register down on the line, it seems a fair guess that there will be a flock of the boys and girls getting themselves qualified on Saturday.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

MIDDLE AGE AND YOUTH

"Oho," said the middle-aged chap, an old
"This thinking not living that makes a man old."
And growups of fifty and sixty can be
As sprightly and nimble as twenty and three
If only the heart had the courage to go
Where timid old reason keeps counselling 'no.'

"I'm young as the youngest. My years I forget,
I'd dance and I'd prance with the light-hearted set,
But the rollicking blades look with pity on me
And act as though 'tis their duty to be.
A chasm divides us! Whenever I'm alight
I'm granted respect which themselves they deny.
"I fancy that still I can share in their fun.
I refuse to admit that my boyhood is done;
But the lads of today in a manner polite
Arise from their seats when I venture in sight,
And with something of sorrow and anguish I note
They all want to help when I put on my coat."

"They say that a man is as old as he feels.
And I laugh and I dance and enjoy all my meals.
That I've journeyed past fifty means nothing to me,
It's out with the young folks I'm eager to be.
And I could carry on just as brave and as bold,
But the youngsters won't let me forget that I'm old."
